The path to becoming a world-class leader is built upon your communication skills and those of your key executives. Bell Leadership's communication strategies have proven so successful in producing increased effectiveness for key leaders throughout the world that we designed this seminar. You will learn how to:

- Increase your listening effectiveness.

- Confront conflicts more effectively and with less stress.
- Be open and non-defensive when people give you feedback, suggestions, and criticism.
- Enrich your sense of humor.
- Enhance your presentation skills so you can deliver your content more successfully.

This program was excellent. It challenged me to think and evaluate my own capabilities as a communicator. It also gave me great information to take back to my organization for implementation.
